

MOTHER SAID HE'D COME TO A BAD END, AND HE DID

Herbert Earle Shot and Killed by a Newark Detective While Resisting Arrest—Pathetic Letter from Mother Begging Him to Reform Found.

Joseph P. Farrell, a detective of Newark, N. J., was arrested before Judge Sweeney today charged with manslaughter for killing an escaping prisoner. He was held in $1,000 bail, which was furnished by James Curran, Deputy Collector of Customs for this district.

Farrell was one of the important witnesses in the Melius case and was a close friend of the defendant. A letter at the pocket of the young man killed by Farrell gave his name as Herbert Earle. He was twenty-eight years old and lived at No. 33 Central avenue, Newark. The letter was from his mother, Mrs. P. W. Hasebe, of No. 20 Elm street, West Haven, Conn. It spoke in sorrowful terms of the life he had been leading and begged him to reform. It also predicted a violent end for him unless he changed his ways.

His Mother's Letter.

The letter read as follows:

"My Dear Bertie—Now that poor Melius is dead I suppose you will make it an excuse for further drinking, but it is a poor excuse. You got a great deal of money, but you spent it all in hell holes. You refused to let me have any of it although you knew I needed it to get my furniture away from Newark, and would have gladly paid you back every cent.

"Why don't you reform and become a better boy? Your wayward career is shortening your life. Do you wish to leave this beautiful world and go to another when you are so wicked? I am sure unless you reform your punishment will be awful. Why don't you leave that awful place where you are boarding? I hope you will soon get out of it and come back to your loving mother."

The address to which the letter was directed is in a negro neighborhood, and the police, on investigation, found that Earle had been living with a colored family.

Farrell was standing at Market and Beaver streets when John Walsh, a union-keeper, pointed out a young man to him who had passed a worthless check for $15 upon him.

Farrell arrested the young man and was walking toward the station with him. As they reached Clinton and Beaver streets the prisoner wrenched himself free and started to run, dodging from side to side, to avoid a possible shot.

Farrell chased him and drew his revolver. He fired, and the young man fell. The detective ran up to him and caught him in his arms.

"My God, boy!" he exclaimed, "have I shot you."

"Yes, here," said the prisoner, trying to point to his right shoulder. He became unconscious and died as he was being placed in a police ambulance. The bullet had struck him in the back under the right shoulder, had been deflected and had passed through the left lung and entered the heart.

Farrell went to police headquarters and gave himself up. He said he had not aimed at the young man; that he had drawn his revolver with the intention of firing it in the air to attract the attention of pedestrians. The revolver was in a chamber case, and in trying to get it out of the case he had accidentally fired it. He was placed under nominal arrest by the Chief of Police and held to await an investigation. Farrell has been on the police force of Newark fifteen years.

When informed that her son, Herbert Earle, had been shot and killed at Newark, Mrs. P. W. Hasebe, of No. 20 Elm street, West Haven, Conn., became violently ill. This morning, some neighbors found her lying on the floor of her room, and when they looked in her parlor, Earle was found lying on the floor. He was the black sheep of the family.

FELL SIX STORIES AND IS UNHURT

Little Baby Tumbled Out of the Window into the Cellar Area-way, and Every One Thought He Was Killed.

All that Joseph Pike, seven years old, has to show for a fall of five stories which he took to-day is a penny and slight soreness where an ambulance surgeon slapped him to make him run and to see how badly he was injured.

The Pike boy lives at No. 31 Avenue B, on the fifth floor in the rear. Sunday Joe was asleep when he rolled off a chair at the window and went crashing through the network of clotheslines and into the cellar area, really falling six stories.

There was a woman from the neighborhood and a woman rushed around to the fifth street police station. Sergeant Ryan was on duty.

"Joe Pike is dead! From all the way the fifth window he fell to the street. Oh, heaven!" shrieked the woman. She was followed by another with the same story.

Ryan sent a patrolman to the house and telephoned for an ambulance to Bellevue.

The ambulance surgeon made it a hurry call and was at the place almost as soon as the policeman. The policeman had a small boy by the arm who was writing to be let go.

"Here he is," said the policeman. "What happened, son?" asked the boy. "What fell out of a five-story window? Where are you hurt, my little man?"

He got no answer and felt the boy. He found he could walk, but didn't seem able to talk. Then he hit him a slap and Joseph cried and broke away and ran. When he was caught again the surgeon gave him a penny. The lad thanked him, and after more sympathetic treatment, the policeman decided that Joseph was all right.

In the yard there was a string of broken clotheslines. Joseph had broken every line he hit on the way down, and at no time had his fall been greater than one story without being checked.

"Aint he the lucky child what he is," said the woman when Joseph went out to spend the penny.

WATER SUPPLY AT MANILA.

Will Be Introduced at a Cost of $2,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Major J. F. Cress, city engineer of Manila, has laid before the Secretary of War and Col. Edwards, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, plans for the proposed water supply and sewerage system for Manila, which matters formed the subject of an extended conference at the War Department.

The plans have received the approval of the municipal board of Manila and have been favorably reported upon to the Secretary of War by an eminent consulting engineer sent to the Philippines. The new water supply will be brought to the city of Manila by gravity through a pipe line from the heights at the head of the Marikina Valley, a distance of sixteen miles, at a cost of $1,000,000.

Major Cress's plans have the approval of the Secretary of War and steps now will be taken looking to the letting of contracts. An issue of bonds to meet the cost to be incurred has been authorized.
